

---

And still...endlessly growing cells; cutting back, reducing, condensing, mutating, fermenting...on and on and on and round and round and round...

The discussion now focuses on how to continue. A shift from 'clear sense of statement' to 'intensely questioning', is perhaps entirely inevitable. The first flush of energy and newness has waned and whatever replaces it is coloured by a sense of loss.

Beyond this: how to deal with saturation?

HG November 09

---